

November restaurant openings to be thankful for

USA TODAY Eats Published 6:39 a.m. ET Nov. 27, 2017

Between all the turkey and fixings this month, major cities across the country welcomed dining debuts. Find ramen in New York, Roman pizza in Chicago, local sourcing in Santa Monica, and a brasserie in Philadelphia among America's latest eateries.

"In 1980, my father opened his first restaurant using the founding ingredients of 'food, family and tradition' and I look forward to carrying on that legacy," says Anthony Stefani, managing partner of Chicago's new Bar Cargo. "We're thrilled to bring these new Roman pizza flavors to the vibrant River North neighborhood in a fun bar atmosphere."

On the West Coast, chef Nyeshia Arrington draws inspiration from the past as well.

"As a team, we strive to be progressive while celebrating the traditions and spirits of our cuisine, bringing past, present and future together on every plate," she says of her new restaurant Native in Santa Monica. "We want to celebrate the vast and varied cultures, neighborhoods and people that make us all Angelenos."

Browse the photos above for a sneak peek at these eateries in L.A. and the Windy City, and see more 2017 restaurant openings below.

Fullscreen

2017 restaurant openings

SaltBrick Tavern opened in Downtown Brooklyn on November 14. Alex Hayden

NEW LOWER
RATES